SEAMAN DIES; NAVY TO PROBE COLLISION

Injuries Fatal to Member of Crew of Destroyer in Crash With Steamship.

SIX OTHER MEN ARE HURT

War Vessel Forced to Pump Out 40,000 Gals. of Oil to Keep From Sinking.

William P. Kelly, 19, seaman, first class, died at 6 o'clock last night in the Naval Hospital, Brooklyn, of burns and injuries received Friday night in the collision between the destroyer Graham and the steamship Panama.

The cause of the collision will be investigated by a naval board of inquiry which probably will be appointed on the return from Washington this evening of Admiral Hilary P. Jones, commander of the Atlantic fleet. Navy officers will not discuss the cause of the crash. Edwin A. Drake, vice-president of the Panama Railroad Steamship Line, after visiting the Panama at her dock and talking to Capt. William B. Oakley, said: "After a preliminary investigation it developed that the destroyer appeared on the port side of the Panama and after customary signals were sounded for some unaccountable reason the Graham started to cross the bows of the Panama and the collision resulted."

The Panama came into port under her own power. There was a big hole in her bow above the water line. She docked at Pier 67, North River. The Graham was towed to the navy yard. Capt. Carl T. Voegelsang, commandant of the navy yard, examined the destroyer and talked to her commander, Capt. W. F. Amsden, and other officers. The thirty men who stayed on the destroyer pumped out 40,000 gallons of fuel oil to keep the ship, cut almost in half, afloat as it was being towed in. Kelly received the injuries that killed him when he was standing before the bread locker and the bow of the Panama came through the side of the boat. He was pinned against the smokestack and was burned as well as crushed. His mother, Mrs. Helen Kelly of Roosevelt, L. I., was notified of his death. The others injured are P. W. Thompson, water tender, right leg injured; Raymond A. Smith, fireman, bruised and cut; J. T. Wright, fireman, lacerations; P. A. Reed, seaman, lacerations; Benjamin Meggison, seaman, lacerations; James E. Rogers, seaman, lacerations.

FEDERAL JOB BEGGING.

New Jersey Senators Cannot Find Man for District Attorneyship.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Senatorial recommendation of the successor of Elmer H. Gahan, United States Attorney for New Jersey, whose resignation has been asked by Attorney-General Daugherty, probably will be delayed for several weeks. It was indicated today by Senator Edge of that State. Mr. Edge explained that he had no name in mind and that he understood his colleague, Senator Frelinghuysen, was in the same position. Mr. Edge also expressed belief that it would be difficult to find a man qualified for the place who would accept the appointment.

DEPEW WOULD MAKE WAR DEBT AN ASSET

Would Use Billions as Credit to Stabilize Foreign Exchange.

PRAISES ARMS PARLEY

Maurice Casenave Urges Fair Deal for France at Lawyers Club.

Chauncey M. Depew demanded yesterday that the Governments of the world stop playing politics with the eleven billions owed to the United States and proposed they be made an asset instead of a liability by using them to stabilize exchange and give the credits absolutely needed in Europe. Mr. Depew at a luncheon given by the Lawyers Club in honor of Maurice Casenave, at present secretary and counsel of the French delegation to the Limitation of Armament Conference in Washington, introduced the guest, but before doing so he said that inspiration from "on high" must have guided President Harding in calling the Washington conference. He paid a tribute to the power of public opinion which swept away the ordinary processes, delays and compromises of diplomacy with its demand for peace, disarmament and removal of causes for future wars. But the feature of his address was the following:

"Let us stop playing politics with our foreign debt of eleven billions. They can be used, as I think they can, to stabilize exchange and give credit absolutely needed in Europe; let it so be used. Our farmers are selling their wheat and corn at one-half the cost of raising. Open a foreign market and it will buy the farmers' wheat and corn at prices which will make the farmers again prosperous and happy. Thus can be paid a bad debt, an intolerable burden lifted from the world."

Maurice Casenave, however, asked only that America stop jeering at France and attempt a fair analysis of her financial situation rather than censure her for what she has done. He declared that both the ordinary and extraordinary budgets of France for 1922, amounting to 25,000,000,000 francs, or 2,000,000,000 less than in 1921, will be covered by taxes, except for 1,000,000,000 francs, which has to be covered by borrowing. He said that as soon as the restoration of the devastated provinces shall have been achieved and as soon as the general conditions of business in the world will have improved the French budget will be balanced by taxation only. France has been criticized because she did not levy heavier taxes, but M. Casenave declared that League of Nations experts had calculated that total taxation per capita in England is 26 per cent, in the United States 8 per cent, in France 12 per cent, and in Germany only 12 per cent. France's percentage is based on a population of 40,000,000, of which 4,000,000 are not taxable as they are living in the destroyed regions.

NUN, GIRL AND MAN ARE KILLED BY CARS

Sister of St. Ambrose's Hit by Automobile and Her Skull Fractured.

DRIVER IS UNDER ARREST

Child Runs in Front of Machine and Meets Death Under Automobile.

Venturing into traffic at Broadway and Fifty-fourth street yesterday Sisters Aquinas and De Pozzi, nuns of St. Ambrose's Roman Catholic Church, 515 West Fifty-fourth street, failed to notice an automobile which approached from the south. Sister Aquinas, who was slightly ahead, stepped in front of the car, perceived her danger and endeavored to draw back. But her robes impeded her. She was hit by the radiator and thrown to the ground. She died of fractured skull. Sister De Pozzi was unhurt. The driver, Malcolm Ratray of 2682 Broadway, was held in $500 bail in West Side court for examination tomorrow on a charge of homicide. Sister Aquinas was principal of St. Ambrose's parochial school, where there was general mourning when the report of her death was received. Her body was taken to the rectory to lie in state. Amelia Laredo, 10 years old, was killed at Third avenue and Twelfth street by a commercial automobile driven by Benjamin de Vita of 519 East Eighty-first street, who was charged with homicide. The driver said the girl appeared to be confused and as he turned to avoid her she jumped in front of the car. Identification of the body was made last night by Miss Helen Ramsey, assistant superintendent of the Howard Mission and Home for Little Wanderers, 225 East Eleventh street, where the child had lived for the last four years. Her mother formerly lived at 1515 Sixty-first street, Brooklyn, but her present address is unknown. Michael Monroe, 64, 34 Russell street, Brooklyn, pushing a hand cart, slipped and fell while crossing Williamsburg Bridge and was run down by a truck of the N. R. Contracting Company, 134 Southern Boulevard, The Bronx, one wheel of which went over his right leg. He died at Gouverneur Hospital of internal injuries. Kelza Micklen, the driver, was not held. An automobile ran down and killed Allen E. Fechtig, Jr., 23, son of Dr. Allen E. Fechtig of Queens village, at Jericho Turnpike and Kelsey avenue, Queens, last night and was driven on after the accident. The right headlight of the car was broken. The police have started a general search. Frank Powers, 34, of Centre avenue and Queens Boulevard, Astoria, received a fractured skull and Joseph Zehrlant, 48, of 64 Stone street, Long Island City, internal injuries when their motorcycle and an automobile truck came together at Ninetieth street and Jamaica avenue, Astoria. Powers was in the side car and was thrown out on his head. They were taken to St. John's Hospital. Martin Zeno, 6 years old, of 49 Washington street was struck and instantly killed at Washington and Morris streets by a commercial automobile owned by the New York Mutual Gas Light Company. The automobile was operated by Daniel Presto, 26 years old, a chauffeur, of 149 Eldridge street. Presto was arrested by Policeman James Crane of the Old Slip station on a technical charge of homicide.

POLICE BAND CONCERT.

The fifteenth annual concert and reception of the Police Band was held last night in the Seventh Regiment Armory, Park avenue and Sixty-sixth street. More than 7,000 persons attended the event, which included singing by several opera singers and a vaudeville entertainment afterward. The music was provided by the Police Band and another band. The singers included Nicola Zerola, tenor, of the Metropolitan Opera Company; Marcel Salinger of the Royal Opera Company of Vienna and Miss Evelyn Herbert, soprano, of the Chicago Opera Company.
